

Subjects and Predicates

10b. A subject tells whom or what the sentence is about.

To find the subject, ask who or what is doing something or about whom or what something is being said.

10d. The predicate of a sentence tells something about the subject.

In the following examples, the subjects are underlined once and the predicates are underlined twice.

EXAMPLES The construction of the White House began in 1792.

Not until 1800 did the presidential residence have its first occupants.

EXERCISE A Identify the underlined part or parts of each of the following sentences as the subject or the predicate. On the line provided, write S for subject or P for predicate.

Example P 1. Has the White House been the home of every United States president except George Washington?

- _____ 1. The White House was originally called the President's House.
- _____ 2. Later, it was called the Executive Mansion.
- _____ 3. The building's design was chosen after a contest in 1791.
- _____ 4. The Irish American architect James Hoban won five hundred dollars for his design.
- _____ 5. The original structure was built of white-gray sandstone.
- _____ 6. British forces attacked the capital in 1814 and burned the President's House.
- _____ 7. After the fire, painters whitewashed the new mansion.
- _____ 8. Covering smoke stains were several coats of white paint.
- _____ 9. People commonly called the building the White House.
- _____ 10. During his presidency, Theodore Roosevelt authorized the popular name.

EXERCISE B Identify the underlined part or parts of each of the following sentences as the subject or the predicate. On the line provided, write S for subject or P for predicate.

Example P 1. One symbol of United States independence is the Liberty Bell.

- _____ 11. A picture of the Liberty Bell appears in our social studies textbook.
- _____ 12. Does the Liberty Bell really weigh over two thousand pounds?
- _____ 13. The nation's flag also symbolizes independence.
- _____ 14. The flag's thirteen stripes stand for the nation's original thirteen colonies.
- _____ 15. Can any of you explain the symbolic meaning of the flag's fifty stars?